

LGBTIQ+ INCLUSIVE PRACTICE ONLINE TRAINING

Summary: This online training module provides information to AOD (alcohol and other drug) professionals about inclusive practice when working with lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, intersex and queer (LGBTIQ+) clients. It provides an overview of the history, terminology and important considerations for inclusive practice. It is suitable for all levels of staff in an organisation and can complement existing induction for new staff into the AOD sector.

For health professionals living in Queensland: The developers recommend that organisations seek further, personalised face-to-face training with Queensland AIDS Council (QuAC), to solidify their learning. To organise a workplace training session, contact the QuAC team via their website. Please note that there are fees associated with the face-to-face training. See the QuAC website for pricing information.

Developers: This resource was developed by the Queensland Network of Alcohol and Other Drug Agencies (QNADA), in partnership with Queensland AIDS Council (QuAC).

Year: 2018

Costs: Free

Evidence base: This resource has undergone expert review.

Access the LGBTIQ+ Inclusive Practice training